STORMWATER POLLUTION AFFECTS ALL OF US

Stormwater pollution is one of New Jersey’s greatest threats to clean and plentiful water. Pollutants (gas, motor oil, antifreeze, detergents, fertilizers, pesticides, grass clippings and pet droppings) on streets, parking lots and lawns are washed into storm drains, often picking up trash and toxins along the way. The untreated water eventually empties directly into our water bodies. This polluted stormwater can kill fish and other wildlife, destroy wildlife habitat, contaminate drinking water sources and force the closing of lakes and beaches due to health threats to swimmers.

As part of NJ’s initiative to keep our water clean and plentiful, the Borough of Butler has adopted various ordinances to meet the requirements for clean water set by both State and Federal agencies. Please go to www.butlerborough.com and read the Stormwater Management Page for more details.

Human activity is largely responsible for stormwater pollution. Everything that we put on the ground or in a storm drain can end up in our water. By sharing the responsibility and making small, easy changes in our daily lives, we can keep contaminants and common pollutants out of stormwater. It adds up to cleaner water and saves the high costs of clean-up.
